

Fundamentals of GIS: ESST 3006
Self- assessment

For this exercise, your final score will be an average of your score of yourself and others. Please note that, each of these surveys are worth 1% of your final grade and need to be completed and submitted through my eLearning to obtain the full 2%.

Section A

Each of the criteria gives 5 being the maximum possible score and 1 being the least score.

| Criteria | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 |
|--|--|---|--|--|--|
| General attitude | I was always unpleasant and never available at the time the group members were available and made little to no attempt to contact group members. | I was sometimes unpleasant and never available at the time the group members were available and made little to no attempt to contact group members. | I was mostly cordial and most of the time available to group members. I offered some morale support, if another member could not meet their obligations. | I was cordial and most of the time available to group members. I offered great morale support, if another member could not meet their obligations. | I was always pleasant and always lent a helpful hand and was easily available to give assistance. I always offered great morale support, if another member could not meet their obligations. |
| Research and support (including data sourcing) | Before the proposal, I did not try to find relevant datasets. I did very little to assist in finding relevant literature into the topic. | Before the proposal, I could not find datasets and gave up. I did little to assist in finding relevant literature into the topic. | Before the proposal, I looked at the available datasets and then assisted in finding relevant literature into the matching topic. | Before the proposal, I examined many different sources for data and gave my group members so much relevant data literature, including journal articles into the topic. | Before the proposal, I went beyond the call of duty and found most of the data and literature sources that they used for the literature review and proposal. |

Fundamentals of GIS: ESST 3006
Self- assessment

| Criteria | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 |
|-------------------------------|--|---|--|--|--|
| Data management | I contributed very little to no effort to help my group understand the data and utilize it in a very useful manner. I did not analyze any of the data. | I contributed little to no effort to help my group understand the data and utilize it in a very useful manner. | I made an effort to analyze the data and utilize it in a very useful manner. I constructed some of the graphs, maps, etc | I made an effort to analyze the data and utilize it in a very useful manner. I constructed many of the graphs, maps, etc | I made an extraordinary effort to analyze the data and utilize it in a very useful manner. I constructed most of the graphs, maps, etc |
| Literature review preparation | I contributed very little to no effort to the written deliverable. I did very little to add more literature sources or found new resources for my group. | I contributed very minimally to the written deliverable. I contributed to small portions of the final document, such as adding a few objectives or the title but did not edit or contribute to most sections. I added some literature sources or found new resources for my group. | I somewhat contributed to the written deliverable. I added small portions throughout the document. I did little to start or edit the document. I added quite a few literature sources or found new resources for my group. | I contributed to the written deliverable in a notable way. I may have started the document or edited the final draft for submission. I added quite a few literature sources or found new resources for my group. | I was able to oversee the document from conception to final submission. I infused ideas, was responsible to editing the document, and rechecked the references for inconsistencies. I was responsible for finding most of the sources of information that we used. |

Fundamentals of GIS: ESST 3006
Self- assessment

| Criteria | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 |
|--------------------------|---|--|--|--|--|
| Final report preparation | I contributed very little to no effort to the written deliverable. I did very little to improve the written report. | I contributed very minimally to the written deliverable. I contributed to small portions of the final document, such as adding a few objectives or the title but did not edit or contribute to most sections. I added some additional literature sources or found new resources for my group. | I somewhat contributed to the written deliverable. I added small portions throughout the document. I did little to start or edit the document. I added or wrote many different sections in the final report. | I contributed to the written deliverable in a notable way. I may have started the document or edited the final draft for submission. I added or wrote many different sections in the final report, including the results and discussion. | I was able to oversee the document from conception to final submission. I infused ideas, was responsible to editing most of the document, and rechecked the references for inconsistencies. I was responsible for finding most of the sources of information that we used and ensuring that there were no major inconsistencies. |